This book belongs to: _____

BACKGROUND STORY

The Man Who Bragged

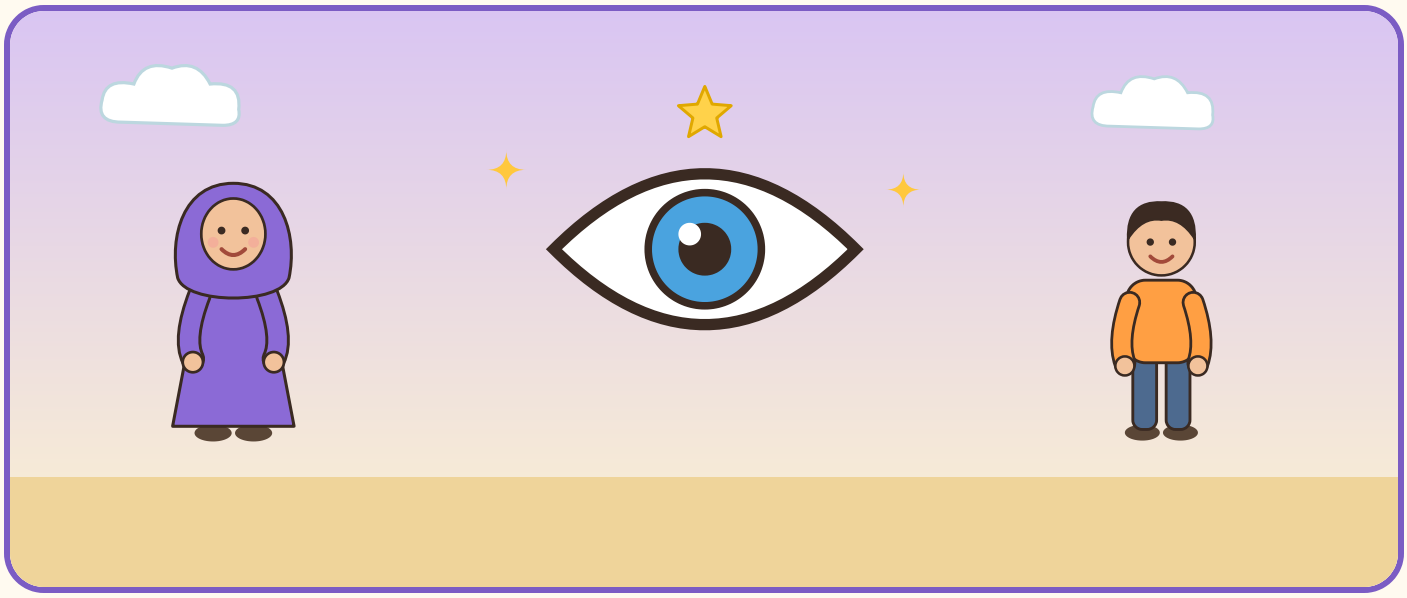

In Makkah lived a man named Al-Ashadd. He was so strong that even ten men could not move him from his place!

He liked to brag. “Look how much money I have wasted!” he said.

He used his money to stop people from following Islam.

BACKGROUND STORY

Allah Sees Everything

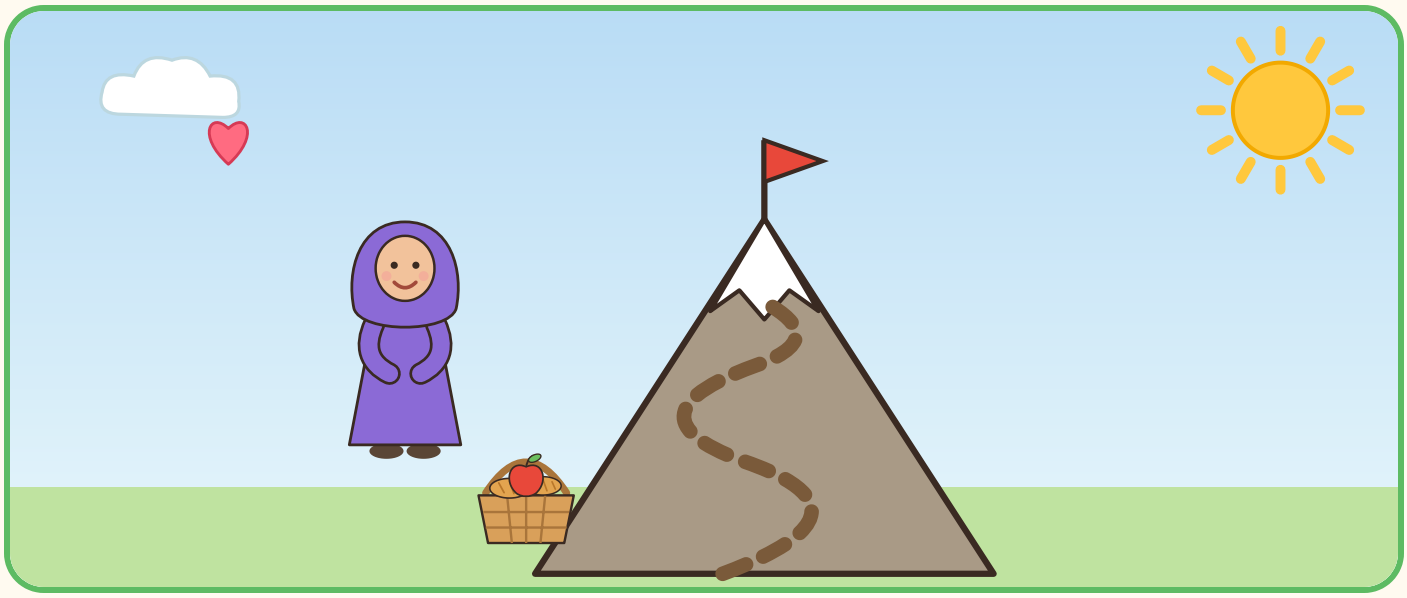

Did he think nobody could see him? Allah sees everything!

Allah gave him two eyes, a tongue and two lips. Allah showed him the right way and the wrong way.

He should have used his money to help people in need.

BACKGROUND STORY

The Path of Goodness

Allah says doing good can feel like climbing a steep hill. It is hard, but it is the best path!

Feed people who are hungry. Help a child who lost a parent. Help poor people. Believe in Allah, and be patient and kind.

Think about it: What is one hard but kind thing you can do?

For grown-ups: from The Clear Quran for Kids (reported by Imam At-Tabari), simplified for little readers.

Omar had a funny dream. His plate of food took him to court!

The rice said, “I came from Indonesia!” The peppers said, “I came from Mexico!” The fish, the carrots and the olive oil came from far away too.

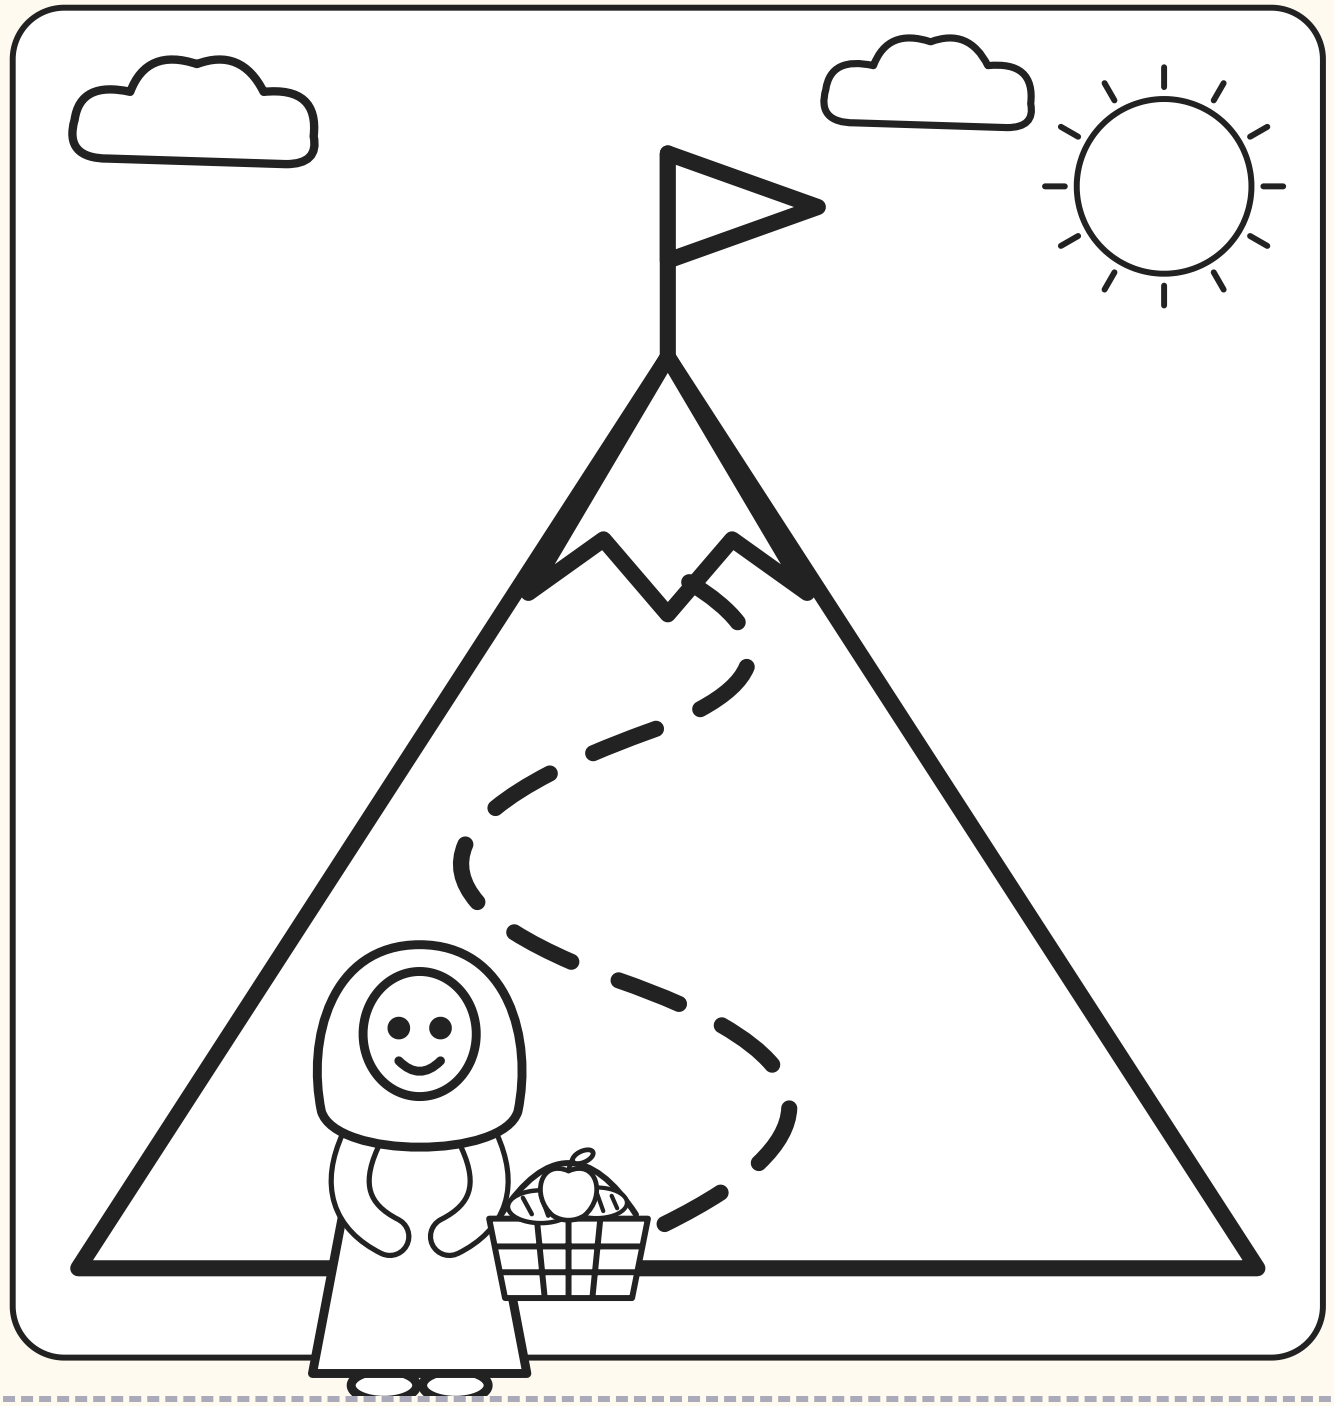

“So many people worked to bring us to your table,” they said. “But half of us went in the garbage!”

Omar said sorry. He promised to finish his food, or share it with someone who needs it. Alhamdulillah.

Talk about it: Wasting is a bad habit. How can you finish your food or share it?
